In the front lines with the rebel army in Col. De Leon, of the Guadarrama Range, thirty miles from Madrid, Aug. 5—The Spanish white army is hammering at the gates of Madrid, and today as we stood on the battlefield of Guadarrama, watching the fighting of the most desperate battle of the Civil War, we could see just 30 miles across the plains of the royal palace in the capital now called Red.
We could see the smoke of forest fires, the smoke of forest fires and the smoke of burning bodies of soldiers.

Thousands of bodies lay in funeral pyres, ready for the incinerator, too urgent to wait for proper burial. For this is the war of ruthlessness. Today we listened to the sound of bullets.
We learned the bitterness when two Madrid airplanes winged over our automobile and swooped low, covering us with machine gun fire.

We learned, too, as we witnessed captures. Down the road lay a motor truck burned.

To Probe Electoral Freedom

Harrisburg, Aug. 5—A Senatorial investigation of reported interference with electoral freedom in Pennsylvania —another WPA probe—today was assured.

Adoption by the State Senate of a resolution calling for such an inquiry invoked a discussion in which a previous attempt to investigate the administration of the program played the leading part.

The resolution, passed after a bitter debate by a vote of 25 to 21, was introduced by Senator G. Mason Owlett, Republican of Tioga, national committee-man from Pennsylvania, who served as chairman of the WPA Senatorial investigating committee, whose work was held up by order of a Federal court.

called for noon by Senator Clarence J.
Buckman, Republican of Bucks, after a demand by Democratic Senate leaders.

HAMILTON ASSAILS BROKEN PLEDGES

"Landon Keeps Promises," Chairman Tells Denver
Audience

TALKS TO 2000 WORKERS

DENVER, Aug. 5—The Republican Presidential campaign in Colorado was officially opened last night when John Hamilton, chairman of the National Committee, assured 2000 delegates at the State convention that when Governor Alf M. Landon promises sound finance in Government and non-political administration of relief he is backed by his record and means exactly what he says.

Arriving here from Billings, Montana, at the close of the second day of his flying tour of the West, Hamilton made his third and fourth speeches of the day, the last before a great assembly of State Republicans in the city auditorium. The theme of his address resolved itself into "Promises Kept by Landon—Promises Broken by Roosevelt." After recalling that Governor Landon had been elected in Kansas on pledges of reduced expenditures, reduced debt and reduced taxes, Hamilton summarized his record as follows:

"Governor Landon went into office in January, 1933. On June 30, 1932, the bonded debt of the State of Kansas and its sub-divisions stood at $154,000,000. On June 30, 1935, this same debt stood at $137,000,000, or a reduction of nearly 11 per cent. In 1932, the last full year in office of Governor Landon's predecessor, it cost $67.35 per capita to run the State and local Governments of Kansas. Three years later per capita cost had been reduced by nearly $15, or by 22 per cent.

"Taxes for all property and for all purposes in the State of Kansas were reduced from seventy-one million dollars in 1932 to sixty-five million dollars in 1935. In other words, Governor Landon knows that the road to insolvency is paved with promises to 'pay tomorrow' and that the way to balance a budget is to balance it."

As for the relief issue, Hamilton declared that 1935 figures showed that Kansas had stood fifteenth in all the States in the percentage of its own funds contributed for relief and third of all States west of the Mississippi.

"Apparently," he said, "Mr. Hopkins spoke hastily when he stated that Kansas had not contributed one thin dime. You know further that Governor Landon came into office pledged to keep politics out of relief and that he did keep politics out of relief. As a result the Kansas relief administration was both adequate and efficient.
Indeed it called forth the spontaneous approval of the Washington relief authorities, who wrote: 'The organization plan of relief and civil works developed in Kansas is one of the best in the country. We consider the work of your executive director and State administrator of civil work unexcelled in any State.'"

Contrasted to the Landon record, Hamilton read the Democratic platform of 1932 pledging anti-trust legislation, cited the NRA as establishing combinations in restraint of trade and declared that in 1936 the Democrats had reaffirmed an anti-trust plank, which they had ignored for four years.

Hamilton was tendered a dinner here by members of the State and county committees and was then escorted to the city auditorium by a parade of crusading Republicans who applauded his speech with unrestrained gusto.

Is There A Limit To Being A Good Neighbor?

(The Hosiery Examiner, Reading, Pa., August 1, 1936)

Figures gleaned from U. S. Department of Commerce publications reveal that from 1932 to 1935 the volume of imports of crude foodstuffs increased 41% and of manufactured food products increased 49%.

The following table gives the volume of imports in 1932 and 1935 for important agricultural products into the U. S.:

| Commodity | 1932 | 1936 |
|-------------------|-----------------|------------------|
| Wheat | 3,000 bu. | 27,439,000 bu. |
| Corn | 344,000 bu. | 43,242,000 bu. |
| Oats | 59,000 bu. | 10,107,000 bu. |
| Barley | none | 4,840,000 bu. |
| Rye | none | 9,643,000 bu. | | Rice | 19,074,000 lbs. | 53,457,000 bu. |
| Barley Malt | 52,553,000 lbs. | 320,623,000 lbs. |
| Hay | 13,858 tons | 67,171 tons |

Meanwhile the volume of agricultural exports from the U. S. to foreign countries has declined. The quantities of individual commodities exported have declined as follows:

|---------------------|-----|
| Cotton | 33% |
| Tobacco | 4% |
| Wheat | 99% |
| Flour | 42% |
| Meat Products | 19% |
| Lard | 82% |

While American farmers destroyed 6,000,000 hogs on the order of the government, we turned around and imported from other countries 115,000,000 pounds of meat. You might think that American farmers could make the butter for the bread made with imported flour, but no, we bought 22,000,000 pounds of alien butter to spread on our bread.

America . . . greatest and richest farming nation on the face of the world has paid its farmers to destroy foodstuff, while millions of its citizens go hungry . . . has taxed its workers to pay its farmers to revel in idleness . . . has created unemployment for 3,000,000 farm hands and opened the gates to the richest market in the world for the citizens of other countries, thereby enriching foreigners and impoverishing our own folks.

Surely we want, as a nation, to be good neighbors with all other countries in the world, but isn't there a limit to being a good neighbor? Must we be like the thoughtless person who gives away everything to his own detriment and well being, only to be considered a sap and a beggar afterwards?

BUCKS LICENSE BUREAU "TAKES BEATING" IN JULY

Number of Marriage Licenses Issued During the Month Was Only 97

BLAME THREE-DAY LAW

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 5—The marriage license bureau at the Bucks County Court House, located in the office of Clerk of Orphans' Court Elleanor K. Worthing, "took a beating" during the month of July compared to the business transacted in July, 1935.

During the business days in July, only 97 couples were granted marriage licenses compared to a total of 229 licenses granted in July last year.

It is the same old story. The great decrease in business is not due to the fact that there are fewer applicants, but because the 30-day law is driving applicants to other States.

A year ago it was not necessary to wait three days to use the marriage license.

The large majority of the applicants during July were non-residents of Bucks county, and a large portion of the marriages were performed at civil ceremonies, with the largest number of marriages taking place at the home of Justice of the Peace James Laughlin, Bristol township.

Of the 219 individuals among the applications for licenses, 13 were under 21 years old and had to have the consent of their parents.

Sixty-two percent of the applicants were from Philadelphia while Trenton furnished a larger number than any place in Bucks county.

School teachers and students, with the vacation season under way, were more numerous among the applicants than other professions.

The marriage license record for the month of August a year ago was 284 couples. That is the goal set for August of this year, but if it is reached, it will mean that business will have to be tripled over July of this year.

Eighteen women were older than their bridegrooms during July, a rather unusual record for one month.
More than 40% of the female applicants had occupations other than housework.

The large majority of applicants coming to the Court House for licenses, make all arrangements for their marriage before leaving Doylestown.
Most of them ask for either a Justice of the Peace or the Burgess, while a certain number go to the homes of the various clergymen to complete arrangements.

In various sections of the county, marriage license applications are made direct to a Justice of the Peace, who in turn secures the license and completes arrangements to perform the wedding at some future date, usually four days later.

Eight States were represented among the applicants during the month of July, one applicant living in Canada.

During the month of June this year, licenses were granted to 195 couples.

TWO MORE TROOPS OF SCOUTS OFF TO CAMP

Bristol No. 3 and Andalusia Troops Arrive During The Fifth Week of Camp

COMMISSIONERS BUSY

Two more of the Lower Bucks District troops have gone to Buccoo Camps for their Summer encampment, Bristol No. 3, and Andalusia. With their arrival the fifth week opened, and Edgely left Buccoo to close the fourth week of the 1936 season. The energetic work of District Commissioner Herbert A. Pettit, Sr., and his Neighborhood Commissioners has given the troops in the local district a 100% registration record. The tenth season of the Bucks County Scouting Council camp has been an eventful one from the dedication ceremonies on July 12th, and will continue until the last week of the camp with the annual Buccoo Camps show on Wednesday evening, August 12th.

The devotion and leadership of the scouters in the Lower Bucks District is being shown by three out of the five Buccoo Commissioners up to this time being men from the local district. Merit Hodge Commissioner Jesse Wendkos of Andalusia was selected by the other troop leaders this week to be the Buccoo Commissioner for the fifth week. Mr. Wendkos has established quite a reputation for himself at the camp for the record he established last year when he was Director of Advancement, and during his direction every Scout in camp made one advancement step forward in his Scouting experience. For this week, Mr. Wendkos will continue his advancement supervision. The sanitation and health of all of the campers as well as the camp leader during Dress Parade will be among his responsibilities. The other two men in the District who were Buccoo Commissioners have been Scoutmaster Robert B. Downing, Bristol No. 2, for the first week, and Neighborhood Commissioner William F. Amick, of Corn-wells, during the second week.

Bristol No. 3 is at Buccoo under the leadership of Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Samuel Bragg. They are camping at Palmer Point, one of the canvas tent units. They have two 16x16 tents, and a large mess fly for their dining and cooking area. From their site can be seen the famous ten mile view of the valley surrounding Buccoo. Rev. L. H. Willhite has been giving his greatest support in making possible the attendance of the Scouts at Buccoo. He was assisted in getting them to camp through the kind cooperation of William Wallace not only making his truck available but also driving Rev. Willhite with the Scouts to Buccoo. Scouts of Bristol No. 3 at Buccoo are, in addition to Leader Bragg, Walter Keys, Raque Sanes, Earl Ross, Harrison Fisher, Harry White, Matthew Bragg, Robert Perry, William Teed and David Johnson.

Feasterville Republicans Plan Active Campaign

FEASTERVILLE, Aug. 5—A crowd of more than 75 enthusiastic Republicans gathered in the community hall here when the Lower Southampton Republican Club met to hear speakers and to continue plans for further organization.

An urgent appeal to all to "Vote the straight Republican ticket" was issued by C. Wilson Roberts of Upper Southampton. The fine qualities of Theodore R. Gardner, the Bucks-Lehigh candidate for Congress were praised and he asked all to give him their support in the coming election.

The president of the local club, Mr.
Dessalot, presented the county chairman, A. Harry Clayton, Mr. Clayton Certificate" campaign now being carried on. Mrs. Sara S. McNeil, executive secretary of the campaign for this district explained the work now underway. She informed the group that although the campaign has really just begun there are already 40,000 women

GIVES SUGGESTIONS FOR CULTURE OF THE TOMATO CROP

Over 50 Bucks County Farmers Hear J. M. Huffington Speak

AT A FARM IN EMILIE

Helpful Suggestions Given To Growers; Meet at Baker-Chapman Farm

More than fifty Bucks county farmers gathered last evening on the farm of George Baker and Harry Chapman, near Oxford, on the Oxford-Tullytown Road, to view the tomatoes grown there and to listen to suggestions from J. M. Huffington, vegetable garden specialist, on the culture and picking of tomatoes.

The group assembled at 7:15 in order to view the acres of tomatoes on the farm and then Mr. Huffington, a representative from Pennsylvania State College, spoke on "Tomato Culture." His topics included: soil, fertilizer, plants, transplanting, cultivation, and picking.

According to Mr. Huffington, the soil should be well-drained, fertile clay loam, well supplied with organic matter, supplied either by manure, sod or green manure crops, and preferably not following tomatoes or potatoes.
The group was told to plow the soil deeply and early to give sufficient time for the decay of coarse organic matter.

The fertilizer used, the tomato growers were told, constitutes a very important factor in the results obtained.
Any fertilizer excepting nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia or other soluble nitrogen salts must be drilled deeply for best results. The most effective method of application is in hands about 2 and one-half inches to the side and 2 to 3 inches deep.

Transplanting of the plants should take place not later than June 5th for the best results, Mr. Huffington suggested, and the plants should be handled carefully.

"Cultivation," Huffington suggested,
"should be started early to prevent weeds from getting a start. The first cultivation may be fairly deep but not close to the plants. Later cultivation should be shallow, and often just enough to prevent weed growth. Do not cultivate or weed the plants when wet with dew or rain."

Following this talk, which was delivered on the headland next to one of the largest tomato patches on the farm, the group

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5, 1936

HAVE YOU AN UMBRELLA?

Standing inconspicuous among the business news items we find a statistic whose significance, we believe, has been underrated. The production of umbrellas in this country, which amounted to 27,000,000 in 1927, declined to 5,000,000 in 1934, and is still declining.

What is the reason for this slump?

The general depression, in which all production sank below normal? The fact that walking has become unpopular, being resorted to only for going from the door of a house to the door of a closed car?

The growing preference, in what little walking we do, for the protection of the more easily carried rain-coats?

The circumstance that no one any longer buys umbrellas because everyone has taken to stealing them?

Or, finally, the drouth cycle, during which fewer umbrellas are made simply because there is less rain necessitating the use of them?

This last theory sounds plausible, and we incline to accept it and consider the subject closed. But a sudden thought diverts us and leads to a far more important speculation. We sense the operation of a vicious circle. If the scarcity of umbrellas is the result of drouth, is not the drouth, perhaps, a result of the scarcity of umbrellas?

There used to be a belief, based on ample evidence, that when we left our umbrellas at home, it would rain. Well, we surely can't expect as heavy precipitation when there are few umbrellas to leave at home as we can expect when there are many. Proportionately to the umbrella figures quoted above, we should have less than one-fifth as much rainfall in this year as we had in 1927! We are getting more, but it is probably only a matter of luck.

Here, by the way, is a scientific principle which might afford a quick solution of the drouth and farm relief problems, if some political party would espouse it. But alas, compared with the common run of party principles, we fear it is altogether too scientific for that.

DOG DAYS

The period of greatest heat is traditionally called "dog days," beginning with the time when Sirius, the dog star, is in conjunction with the sun. Dogs are said to be most likely to go mad during that period.

All animals need plenty of water in dog days. People who still drive horses should not expect them to toil over highway or farm without frequent drinks. Patient Old Dobbin will not go mad, but running him without water on a hot day is like operating your automobile without oil.

The drinking fountains of former days usually had places where the dogs could drink. It is not the business of the gas stations to water the dog, and the careless owner may never think of it. Watch those friendly creatures rolling their red tongues, and think how you would like it if unable to find water. But as for humans, they will not suffer from lack of water, until the city supply or the old well runs dry.

In general, the history of third parties is that they go the way of all flesh.

SQUANDERING OUR WEALTH

OUR RUBBER STAMP CONGRESS has been digging into our National Wealth so deeply, that generations yet unborn will pay the debt. New Deal appropriations including the fiscal year 1936-1937 have reached the gigantic total of 41 billion 506 million dollars, and Rubber Stamp Congressmen promise to continue this orgy, if re-elected.

This sum is greater than the value of all farms in the United States, or of all of our railroads, manufacturing machinery, telephone and telegraph systems.

In spite of a billion dollars increased revenue, our latest deficit was the greatest of all—nearly 5 billion dollars. The bottom of the barrel can be reached. This will happen, unless the Rubber Stamps are replaced.

"BARNUM WAS RIGHT"

The one and only P. T. Barnum is alleged to have said many things that never found their way into our copy-books . . . things to which few of us would wish to subscribe. But he uttered a profound truth when he said: "If you don't advertise your business, the sheriff will."

Firms which intend to stay in business, that is, firms which deal directly with the public, must advertise. By the same token, it is a sign that they mean to stay in business when they do advertise. For they are offering, through advertisements, the values in their stores.

You, the customer, will decide whether or not they ARE values. If they are not, it is "just too bad" for the firm that claimed they were. Don't you see, therefore, that no merchant can afford to misrepresent himself or his goods in print? Advertising merely magnifies a misrepresentation—brings the fatal day nearer.

Naturally, then, you can trust the advertisements in this paper. You can believe that the stores signing those advertisements want your trade, and are willing to earn it—with honest values and fair treatment. Read the advertisements. Patronize the advertisers. It is to your selfish interest to do so.

"Do sit down. I've been hoping we might meet."

showing her "greenness": "My first visit."

"Wonderful. Going to stay long?"

"For the winter. I mean, for the season," she corrected herself.

He raised his brows. They were straight and rather heavy. She explained: "I'm going to make my debut,"—and seeing him unimpressed, volunteered further: "I've cousins on Park Avenue—the Winslow Rushingtons—they're in the Social Register—you may have heard of them?"

Again that quizzical smile. He thought how naive she was! The mother looked a queer old party in her purple velvet "travelling gown"—the father a rugged Westerner, a bit grouchy—the situation reminded him of a film he had seen, with Will Rogers in the father's part—it was called: "They Had to See Paris!"

As though there was telepathy between them, the girl said suddenly, almost challengingly: "We struck oil on our place in Texas."

"Splendid. And now you're going to take the big city by storm?"

"Why do you laugh at me? What do you think's so funny about me?"

She had forgotten her role of proud debutante, and spoke like a hurt little girl.

He said quickly: "I didn't mean to seem rude. Fact is, I've been out in the wilds for quite a spell—with just a gang of men; no women anywhere—in those circumstances I must be excused for forgetting the social amenities a bit"—again his fine eyes twinkled.

"What were you doing out there? Oil, too?" She was uncertain how to take him.

cause she was curiously attracted to him, and did want to know: "Tell me about yourself—your work. And are you coming to New York too?"

He nodded. "But not for any longer than I can help."

Her eyes widened. "You mean you don't like it?"—incredulously.

"That's so. I can't abide cities for long. The noise, the rush, the people, the camouflage."

She breathed: "Don't you like parties?"

"I loathe 'em. Had enough of 'em in my day. My one idea's to dodge 'em!"

"Good gracious! How extraordinary! And you're quite young!" Her eyes searched his face. She thought: "How can anyone as good-looking as he is want to live like a hermit?"

"I'm twenty-five. Sorry I can't change my character. Just made that way, I guess."

"You're—what's the word?—arrogant! Twenty-five is only a boy!"

He laughed outright. He had a hearty, natural laugh. Against her wish, it only served to add to his attraction.

"And you're not so ancient yourself. Come on, let's introduce ourselves. My name's Terry Shannon—good old Irish ancestry—SHANTY IRISH! Might I beg for your calling-card, young woman?"

"Haven't got one yet." She smiled. He thought: "Gad! she's quite pretty when she smiles—I'll make her smile again." She added: "I come from Palookah, Texas, and my name's Vernon Tyson."

to "man the ship." Living at the Waterfront Ship as is their custom the Scouts from the neighboring community will have the task of accumulating themselves to sleeping in "real sailors' hammocks," and many of them label the floor with their bounding efforts as the pesky things delight in turning over. Scoutmaster George Bloch was on hand to see if everything was going to be "shipshape," and it was to be seen that with Assistant Scoutmaster Jack Wilkins in charge, and Merit Badge Commissioner Jesse Wendkos assisting, everybody was going to have a happy week together.

This is the third season for Wilkins, and he has always been one of the most competent leaders on the camp site. Andalusia has always been "on deck" when the activity was called, and much of the credit goes to "Leader Jack." A clean site, and never late has been one of their mottoes. Camping at the Waterfront in addition to the leaders named, will be James Wiley, Wayne Vandegrift, Stanley Wendkos, Leighton Davis, William Ladascher, Charles Lehr, Howard Pickersgill, Robert Lange, William Jungmans, Charles Ewing, Louis Tomlinson, Wilson Stackhouse, Rodman Fries, Albert Vickers and William Curtis. Other troops at Buccoo with the two Lower Bucks District troops are Langhorne, Camp Lookout; Doylestown No. 1, Forest View; Trevose, Mountain View; Parkside No. 3, Handicrafters; and Morrisville No. 3, Stockade.

Edgely Scouts had a great time at camp, and a number of them made excellent progress in Scout Advancement. Assistant Scoutmaster Gene Nichols was in charge, and did a great job as leader. Eighteen and a half pounds were gained by the eleven campers. Harold Bergman was selected by his fellow troop-mates as being the best all-around camper, and they elected him in to the Order of the Arrow, the National Honor Campers Brotherhood. Elwyn Gould and Wayne Locke were selected as Honor Law Scouts for being next to Germman in fulfilling their camper's responsibilities. In the tournament, the troop was able to reach the semi-finals in several of them but not quite enough to earn the watermelon of victory.

The improvement of the Stockade site through Assistant Scoutmaster Irwin Brambley of Newportville staying at Buccoo for a second week to complete the second shack will be something he will never forget, and the camp will have as a result of his devoted labor a second of the four shacks planned for the Stockade site. Made out of the chestnut logs, and a siding of rough twelve-inch boards, it makes a marvelous appearance nestling in the woods near the Ceremonial Grounds and Chapel. Chairman of the Newportville Committee, Herbert Brambley, assisted in the completion of some of the construction when he arrived at Buccoo on Sunday afternoon.
